FOREWORD

In every sphere of the life lots of information is being generated which needs to be shared and sharing of information is very important task. It needs some sort of specialized activities. The National Documentation Centre on Literacy and Population Education, was established in IAEA with the financial assistance from UNFPA through Directorate of Adult Education, Govt. of India in 1995. Since its inception the Documentation centre has engaged itself in reaching to its clients with right information at right time, and has tried to become a gateway of information on various aspects of literacy and population education issues.

It is a matter of great satisfaction that over the years Documentation centre has been regularly collecting resource materials, generating bibliographies, publishing journal and newsletter on population education which are highly appreciated. Through information repackaging service it has kept its programme partners abreast of the developments on various issues concerning population education.

I am happy to learn that the Documentation centre has prepared a Directory of Resources and Services available for Adolescents in India. The organization's/institutions' related to Reproductive Health, Counseling, Women and Gender Issues, Street and Working Children, Vocational Training and Recreation have been enumerated under different sections. Every effort has been made to make each section self contained.

I congratulate Shri SC Dua and his team for bringing out this timely relevant Document which would be of immense use to research scholars and practitioners in the field.

I wish the Documentation Centre to truly become a gateway of information and clearing house on Literacy, Population and Development Education, issues as envisaged in its programme objectives.

PREFACE

Adolescence is a distinct and dynamic phase of development in the life of an individual. It is a period of transition from childhood to adulthood and is characterized by spurts of physical, mental, emotional and social development.

According to recent statistics, more than 50 per cent of the world's population is below the age of 25 and about, one - fifth of the world population is of adolescents. As this is a large percentage of the population, any change in the pattern of education, behaviour, age at marriage and life style of adolescents would have a significant impact on the societies in which they live.

Keeping in view the above mentioned facts the study of adolescent has gained importance. The Documentation Centre had earlier compiled three different sets of bibliographies i.e. i). Adolescent in India ii). Adolescent Reproductive health, and iii). Adolescent Pregnancy under the Bibliographic Database Series. The bibliographic database, we hope, might have been found helpful in undertaking research work/programmes concerned with adolescents.

Another venture taken up by the NDC in this direction is the development of a Directory of Resources and Services available for Adolescents in India. The services related to Reproductive Health; Counseling; Street and Working Children; Women and Gender Issues; Vocational Training; and Recreation, have been compiled under different sections. The exhaustive lists of National Institute of Open Schooling (NIOS), Jan Shikshan Sansthan (JSS), State AIDS Control Societies. Women and Gender Resource Centres, Drug De-addiction and Counselling Centres, NYK's etc. catering to the needs of the adolescents, are the distinguishing features of the directory. Overlapping of some of the lists and organizations/institutions therein in more than one sections was felt necessary so as to make each section self contained. An effort shall be made to keep an update of the directory in the future. Cooperation/suggestions/contributions of the esteemed readers/users in this direction shall be highly appreciated.

I am thankful to Shri KC Choudhary, President, Indian Adult Education Association for his unconditional support and sustained encouragement to accomplish the task.

I am also thankful to Shri SC Dua, Documentation Officer for scanning several sources to collect the material and editing it. Shri Vivek Nagpal, research scholar, Department of Adult and Continuing Education and Extension, University of Delhi, also deserves appreciation for assisting in search of the material, compilation, and documentation. At last but not the least, I am also thankful to Shri Vikas Khanna, Ms. Neha Arora for preparing, layout design of the manuscript.

Population Education Resource Centres (PERCs)

Population Education Resource Centre is a substructure created under the UGC, UNFPA project on Population Education in Higher Education. It is aimed at providing resource support to grass root level growth of Population Education in each University College and its adopted community. The UGC has set up 12 such PERCs in all. Each PERC has been assigned a service area within which it is expected to provide support to strengthen and expand Population Education in Universities and Colleges. The following pages contain the addresses of these PERCs and the names of the contact persons and telephone numbers of the helplines being run by them.

Family Planning Association of India (FPAI)

Family Planning Association of India founded in 1949, is the country's largest voluntary family planning organisation composed of volunteer members, staff and a number (around 41) of branches. FPAI utilises its unique position as the leading national family planning NGO to create awareness of population, reproductive health, sexual health, youth concerns, women empowerment so as to widen the support base within the country. Moreover this activity too is expanded through its own network of NGOs and by working as a mother NGO/ National NGO in partnership with Government. The following pages are devoted to addresses of various branches of FPAI located all over India.

Counselling Services

Apart from medical psychiatric and social help, counselling as a therapeutic and preventive aid has emerged as an important service and several govt & non-govt. agencies are incorporating this service as an integral part of their programme. The effective counselling process enables the clients to improve knowledge, information and awareness so as to utilize available resources and recognise their potentialities. It also protects them from unscientific information & misconception based on myths offered by quacks. A wide number of areas covered for the purpose may be marital premarital, career, vocational, emotional, behavioural, medical, reproductive health and so on.

Population Education Resource Centres (PERCs)

Population Education Resource Centre is a substructure created under the UGC, UNFPA project on Population Education in Higher Education. It is aimed at providing resource support to grass root level growth of Population Education in each University College and its adopted community. The UGC has set up 12 such PERCs in all. Each PERC has been assigned a service area within which it is expected to provide support to strengthen and expand Population Education in Universities and Colleges. The following pages contain the addresses of these PERCs and the names of the contact persons and telephone numbers of the helplines being run by them.

Family Planning Association of India (FPAI)

Family Planning Association of India founded in 1949, is the country's largest voluntary family planning organisation composed of volunteer members, staff and a number (around 41) of branches. FPAI utilises its unique position as the leading national family planning NGO to create awareness of population, reproductive health, sexual health, youth concerns, women empowerment so as to widen the support base within the country. Moreover this activity too is expanded through its own network of NGOs and by working as a mother NGO/ National NGO in partnership with Government. The following pages are devoted to addresses of various branches of FPAI located all over India.

Resources and Services for Street and Working Children

According to the estimates as assessed by the ILO Bureau of Statistics the number of working children in the world between the ages of 5-14 years (young adolescents) is at least 120 million. India has the largest population of these street and working children in the world. A significant concentration of street and working children are found in the metropolitan cities and cities with specific manufacturing processes where children are preferred for work. They suffer from the worst kind of deprivation and denial of basic necessities such as education, health, food, shelter, physical protection, security and recreation. The designing of high quality programmes for these street and working children needs collaborative efforts between NGOs, school authorities, working children and their parents. The Govt./international organisations and other NGOs have taken several initiatives for the education and rehabilitation of them. The following pages provide a listing of such services and the NGOs offering them.

Section 3

Resources & Services for Street and Working Children

▶ Education	129 - 139
▶ Vocational Training	140 - 147
▶ Medical Care	148 - 157
▶ Organisations Working for HIV/AIDS / Child Protection/ Sexual Abuses	158 - 162
▶ Drug De - Addiction Centres	163 - 177
▶ Counselling Centres	178 - 187

Education

The Govt. of India is implementing National Child Labour Project in 93 districts of the country as on June, 2000. There are two types of special schools one with an approved strength of 50 children and the other with 100 children. Each of the project societies has been sanctioned specified number of schools to run. These schools are managed by the project societies or alternatively the project societies run these schools through local NGOs. About 1,55,250 young adolescent street and working children have been covered in such 2571 schools under the scheme. The following pages enlist the NGOs running such schools in various districts of the country.

Vocational Training through NGOs

NGOs like Don-Bosco, Salam Balak, Butterflies, Vatsalya, Mariyala, Prayas, HCHW, ICCW, REDs and Maya concentrate on providing vocational skills. The skills taught at these centres are automobile repairs, motor winding, carpentry, painting, handicraft, textile weaving, tailoring, welding, electric repairs and cycle repair. Other non-formal education centres include skills like painting, screen painting and drawing. The items prepared by children are sold in the market for generating funds for the NGOs. These funds generated are used for the children's support. Most of these NGOs have tied with other training institutes for imparting the vocational skills to the enrolled children. The facilities available for vocational skills vary from good to highly inadequate equipment. The addresses of the voluntary organisations providing such vocational training infrastructure for the adolescents has been put forward in the list.

National Institute of Open Schooling (NIOS)

NIOS was set up by the Department of Secondary Education, Ministry of Human Resource Development, Government of India in 1989 as an autonomous organisation to provide a flexible continuing education facilities to those who have missed the opportunity to complete school and developmental education through courses and programmes of general, life enrichment and vocational education from primary to pre-degree level. It offers vocational education at the school level through distance education mode and open learning system. Keeping in view the needs of target groups, the thrust is on providing more vocational and community-oriented courses in addition to general and academic courses. NIOS offers several vocational courses in the broad areas of Agriculture, Engineering and Technology, Health and Paramedical, Home Science, Computer Science, Library Science, Business and Commerce, Secretarial Practice and Teacher Training and other General, Vocational and Life Enrichment areas. The NIOS operates its vocational educational programmes through Accredited Vocational Institutions (AVIs) whose list is given in following pages alongwith vocational courses being offered by them.

Jan Shikshan Sansthan (JSS)

Jan Shikshan Sansthan are non-formal vocational education institutions for adults. By linking literacy with vocational training, JSSs seek to improve the quality of life of the beneficiaries. JSSs have the entire district as its areas of operation and they are expected to work as district level resource support agencies in organizing vocational training programmes for neo literates. JSSs in some places are also running continuing education centres and nodal continuing education centres. Today there are over 100 JSSs in the country which offer around 225 different types of vocational training programmes ranging from candle and agarbatti making to computers. The complete list is given in the following pages.

Directorates of Appernticeship Training

Directorate of Appernticeship Training is the nodal agency to implement the Apprenticeship Training Scheme, under Apprentices Act 1961, which regulates the needs of trained skilled workers for industry by utilising the training facilities available in the industry to supplement the availability of trained technical personnel. It is a statutory obligation of every industrial establishment having training facilities according to the syllabus, in a designated trade under the Apprentices Act, 1961 to train a number of apprentices as per prescribed ratio. The training consists of Basic Training and Shop Floor Training. The on-job shop floor training imparted by industrial establishments is augmented by Basic Training Centres. The following pages provide a complete list of the State level Directorates of Appernticeship Training.

Vocational Training through NGOs

NGOs like Don-Bosco, Salam Balak, Butterflies, Vatsalya, Mariyala, Prayas, HCHW, ICCW, REDs and Maya concentrate on providing vocational skills. The skills taught at these centres are automobile repairs, motor winding, carpentry, painting, handicraft, textile weaving, tailoring, welding, electric repairers and cycle repair. Other non-formal education centres include skills like painting, screen painting and drawing. The items prepared by children are sold in the market for generating funds for the NGOs. These funds generated are used for the children's support. Most of these NGOs have tied with other training institutes for imparting the vocational skills to the enrolled children. The facilities available for vocational skills vary from good to highly inadequate equipment. The addresses of the voluntary organisations providing such vocational training infrastructure for the adolescents has been put forward in the list.

Recreational Services

Nehru Yuva Kendra Sangathans (NYKS)

Recreational Services

Through the organisation of Recreational and Cultural Services in various forms, the government tries to utilise the energy of the young adults in nation building and at the same time contributes towards their personality development. These twin objectives are fulfilled through establishment of NYKS and other similar bodies which focus on young adults and thus offer them a wide range of recreational resources for best utilization of their leisure time.
